Holocaust Memorial Day 2019 – Torn from home

Today we welcome members of the local Jewish community, who will be joining us for our Holocaust Memorial Service at 11:00 am.

The theme for 2019 is Torn from home to encourage us to reflect on what happens when people are driven out of their homes, because of persecution or the threat of genocide, as well as the continuing difficulties survivors face as they try to find and build new homes when the genocide is over.

During the first years of Nazi rule some Jewish families, as well as others who were facing increasing persecution left their homes and fled Germany. Some fled to neighbouring countries in Europe, whilst others left for countries further away like the USA, Canada and China. Many children were sent without their parents on the Kindertransport to Britain. Not only did this mean leaving loved ones and all that was familiar, but they also had to make a new home in a different culture and language. In some cases they were not always made welcome in their new country.

Nearly 10,000 Jewish children were rescued by the Kindertransport scheme

In subsequent genocides, communities experiencing persecution have fled their homes, becoming refugees in nearby countries, or seeking asylum elsewhere.

Before the start of World War II, Jewish people in Nazi Germany were told that it was now legal for their homes to be taken from them at any time. At the outbreak of the War, Nazi control spread across Europe and Jewish people were forced from their homes into ghettos. Families had to live in overcrowded, dirty and unsanitary conditions; disease and starvation were rife.

In Cambodia in the 1970s, the Khmer Rouge forced men, women and children into the countryside to work as slave labourers on collective farms. Deaths from execution, disease, exhaustion and starvation have been estimated at over two million people. Some lost hope that they would ever see their homes again.

Thousands of Jews survived the Holocaust because they were protected by people and institutions of other faiths. Dozens of Catholic convents in German-occupied Poland independently took in Jewish youngsters. Belgian Catholics hid hundreds of children in their homes, schools, and orphanages, and French Protestant townspeople in and around Le Chambon-sur-Lignon sheltered several thousand Jews. They were hidden in cellars and attics, where they had to keep quiet, even motionless, for hours on end. Any noise - conversation, footsteps - could arouse neighbours' suspicions; prompt a raid, discovery and death.

When such genocide is over millions are left displaced, often hundreds of miles from home. Some try to return only to find they have nothing to return to – often facing continuing prejudice and having to live amongst the very people who destroyed their homes and killed their loved ones in the first place.

After persecution, 'home' can become a country offering a place of safety and belonging. The continuing refugee crisis highlights that there are still millions of people across the world who are seeking a safe place to call home.

Brexit: a prayer from the Archbishop of York, John Sentamu

In response to a call from Churches Together in Britain and Ireland for all its member churches to pray for the political situation in the UK the Archbishop has written this prayer:

God of eternal love and power, save our Parliamentary Democracy; protect the High Court of Parliament and all its members from partiality and prejudice; that they may walk humbly the path of kindness, justice and mercy.

Give them wisdom, insight and a concern for the common good.

The weight of their calling is too much to bear in their own strength, therefore we pray earnestly, Father, send them help from your Holy Place, and be their tower of strength. Lord, graciously hear us. Amen.
